

William Pomerantz
VP for Special Projects at Sir Richard Branson's Virgin Galactic

William Pomerantz is the Vice President for Special Projects at Sir Richard Branson's Virgin Galactic, the world's first spaceline. In that role, Will helps lead Virgin Galactic's efforts beyond space tourism, including flying research and educational payloads onboard the suborbital spacecraft SpaceShipTwo and launching small satellites into orbit onboard LauncherOne. Will also serves as a Trustee of the Students for the Exploration and Development of Space (SEDS), the world's largest student space organization, and is Chair of the Commercial Space subcommittee of the Aerospace Industries Association.

He is a graduate of Harvard University, the NASA Academy, and the International Space University. From 2005 - 2011, he worked at the X PRIZE Foundation, the world-leading incentive prize organization, where he served as the primary author and manager of the $30 million Google Lunar X PRIZE and the $2 million Northrop Grumman Lunar Lander X CHALLENGE.

Will has also worked at Harvard and Brown Universities, the Futron Corporation, and the United Nations, and was the co-founder and Editor-in-Chief of SpaceAlumni.com, an early social network for space professionals.